

Hi all,

despite really windy and rather cold weather we had a great day!! My brother and his nephew are here and a photographer who has done stuff before with my brother. JoJo and co really stepped up!! we found JoJo with small dolphin in MURKY water he came right up he brought me to his friend a few times but it was so murky I could barely see anything except when I looked out of the water. Ethan our photographer got in and JoJo came right up to look at him he got a good shot despite the conditions we then got footage of JoJo following the boat all the way up to the end of Pine Cay the waves were mammoth we had to turn back even though JoJo was waiting (Hate that) he has another injury this one is on his rostrum looks like someone took a biopsy you can see it in the pics.

Later after we swam all the cameras food parkas!! and wet towels into shore JoJo swam by!!! I leapt off the Club med dock and swam like a mad woman as John once again went to the boat all the stuff was in transit to the condo!!!

JoJo was on his way to a snooze around bat Ray so after we found him (I had gotten in the boat) I got in to keep him company and John went back to get Ethan because the water was clear although ROUGH. they both came back and JoJo came over to our boat (because he loves us!!!:))) wow was it clear after a while Ethan got in with JoJo and i JoJo was great and Ethan can swim underwater like Dean!! JoJo the hamster he is mugged for the camera sooo cool he swam up and own the anchor line Ethan got some great shots of him and I swimming together and my feeble attempts at free diving the pics came out great!!!! ben is going to do some sort of short piece for his website he's done other ones he does a great job!! when it's done ZI'll give you all the site!

I forgot to mention that as JoJo and I were swimming along together and Ethan was filming, JoJo brought us to a table that must have blown into the water JoJo knows that isn't supposed to be there and wanted to show us!! we were almost to the reef at this point so it sure traveled a long way unless it was off a boat. after awhile JoJo started to travel away from the boat and was waiting for me to come but we'd been out there forever and I was pooped even with the scooter that was running low on battery. I was thrilled however because I had a happy photographer(he came all the way from Calif it would have been bad if we hadn't found JoJo!!

I know none of you will believe this but it's cold down here!!! wwe got some more great stuff because joJo came right by the club so I could swim out to him Ethan took the boat over and we spent quite awhile joJo showed us another underwater human thing!! he was clicking away and brought us down to this sort of long ladder which had some long big ropes attached I guess being it was by the Club med dive boat that it had come off one of their boats and JoJo wantd us to know about it. Ethan got great shots of him showing us with his mouth open which seems to be when he clicks. he then got us to take him all the way to the end of Pine cay I maybe going to divorce court over that one as John got drenched and was frozen as i sat in the back admiring my friend surfacing to breath right beside me!! I was hoping he would bring us to the others but when he left I didn't see anyone and didn't dare push my luck asking John to wait around!! can;t wait to show you all the pics they are great!!! Ethan is amazing!!

Be home soon. I'm already missing JoJo sooooo long til Nov!!

I had my last meeting with JoJo yesterday it was as good as it gets. he pooped up infront of our boat I actually screamed as I thought we were going to run over him I think he was coming to out boat and didn't realize how fast we were going. anyway after locating the pod whch took awhile. We determined that there were 3 dolphins. it was murky so it was hard to spot them in the water until JoJo came to the boat. I got in and he looked up from a vertical positionat my scooter. His rostrum was looking better. Then he took me slowly toward Pine cay I saw another dorsal from above the water then I saw all of them !!!!! I swam for quite a way right with Mom and big calf (1\2) the size of JoJo. The calf at one point swam right under JoJo and jojo caressed him!! the line up as we all swam in unison was Mom Jojo me and calf . I really was feeling like a pod member. John said I was morphing into a dolph I was wishing I could!!! I have been at this for 10 wonderful years this is as good as it gets!!

I think if only I could stay that I could befriends another dolphin with JoJo's help so T & C would have another sociable dolphin. I'm soooo sad to leave him til next year :((((
